

The following quotes are from patients who attended the breakfast.

My husband and I got so much out of the seminars. Plus, as a tissue donor, the event somehow made me feel part of “something bigger,” and that was such a great feeling.

It is so impressive what your team is doing in this area.

The information provided answered a lot of my questions.

Thank you for allowing us into your space and getting close to the equipment.

The lab tour was great. I wish I could see the difference between normal cells and tumor cells.

An incredible event for the neuroscience community to demonstrate what lies in the not-too-distant future in this very difficult field.

Interesting info about the tissue bank, glad to hear that this info can be shared with other researchers internationally. Good work , thank you!”

Most of the information was easy to understand when talking to a “lay-person”.

Hope this event continues yearly, at least. Very informative!

It’s great to see how the donations are stored, processed, and used in scientific research.
